Project Narrative *
Part 1: This project will digitize 150 photos and letters from the John J. Living archive. It complements a collection currently existing at Times Library. John J. Living lived in West Seneca from 1880–1935 and was a prominent citizen that supported women's rights including voting privileges. His contribution showcases little known history of how men were on the front lines of the suffrage movement.

Part 2: We are requesting funding to support the housing, scanning, OCR, and uploading of content to NY Heritage by hiring a student to digitize the materials at $15 per hour for approximately 133 hours of work which will span over the course of the semester (about 8–10 weeks). In kind support is the purchase of archival folders to house the photos as well as marketing on social media by the library's Communication Coordinator.

Part 3: This small collection contains both letters and black and white photos that were donated to the library from a former faculty member, Dr. Dennis Menace in 2001. He was a professor in the history department. These items and others were collected through his family connections dating back to 1890 and Dr. Menace has full copyright to digitize and make accessible this content. This is a subset of a larger collection he donated that has been described and mostly processed and includes items of other prominent figures active in the movement. Interested researchers and college students would benefit by exploring this side of male support of the suffrage movement. The material will be digitized and uploaded to New York Heritage first and linked from our library's website.

The library would like to digitize other supporters outlined in this collection in the future through further grant funding. Evaluation will depend on usage statistics once the collection is uploaded. The raw digitized files will be stored in our archive on hard drives and backed up by contributing them to ESLN's dark archive.

Project Plan/Timeline	John Doe, a student at the university, will manage the project and conduct all the scanning via equipment available at the library. The scanning of the 150 images should take about 8–10 weeks beginning in January and completing it mid semester. Marketing will be done via social media.
Will you accept partial funding for this project? *	Less images would be digitized.
