

Improve patient care outcomes!

A hospital library staffed with a dedicated medical librarian is a crucial asset for promoting evidence-based patient care.

Our HLSP librarians provide:

- Expert searches quickly and efficiently, saving valuable time for medical professionals.
- On-demand healthcare information, helping to improve patient care outcomes and reduce risks.
- Support for innovative medical practices.
- Customized research, keeping medical professionals informed about the latest developments across various medical fields.

The HLSP helps acute care hospitals meet The Joint Commission standards, New York Code, ACGME, Magnet Status and other relevant educational requirements.

ABOUT OUR PROGRAM

Formed in 1982 by the New York State Legislature, the Hospital Library Services Program is a critical connection to current healthcare information for medical professionals.

Our program is committed to advancing healthcare and providing hospitals across Western New York with quality information services.

The Hospital Library Services Program is a program of the Western New York Library Resources Council (WNYLRC).

OUR SOURCES

Evidence-based health information is our specialty!

SERVICES PROVIDED:

- Personalized assistance with research inquiries from an ALA/MLA certified medical librarian with a Master's degree.
- Access to specialized and current health information resources and Interlibrary Loan.
- Hands-on search training.
- Access to cooperative purchasing programs for books, serials, and electronic databases.
- Grants, including an annual allocation of funds for library materials.
- Annual membership in the National Network of the National Library of Medicine (NN/LM).

HLSP librarians are search experts skilled at quality filtering results and identifying specific information requested by medical professionals.
